

Dear Families

Recently my attention was drawn to the following stark headline, supported by research.

‘Those who fall behind in reading tend not to catch up’

In February 2020, GL Assessment published some illuminating research – ‘Read All About It’ – looking into children and young people’s reading. This large study involved analysis of the reading abilities and GCSE results of more than 370,000 secondary school students during 2018/19, and contains a hugely important finding: “Children who are weak readers will struggle as much in maths and science at GCSE as they do in English and in arts subjects.” In other words, being able to read holds the keys to success across the curriculum, not ‘just’ in English.

“Our study showed that there is a significant correlation between reading ability. Even the more expressive subjects – art, drama, music – have strong correlations to reading ability. Creativity, in effect, will be enhanced by reading.” ... and GCSE results across all subjects”

In terms of reading age distribution, the study finds that, nationally:

A quarter of 15-year-olds have a reading age of 12 or below. One in five pupils aged 15 have a reading age of 11 or below, and 1 in 10 pupils have a reading age of 9 and below 20% of 11-year-olds have a reading age of 15 or above.

Whilst we don’t teach secondary age children at Southway we do recognise the need to focus on the love of reading, instill that in our children and prepare them for their futures. We invest heavily in reading materials and resources and we are always looking for innovative ways to encourage and celebrate the written word.

On a separate note we look forward to seeing many of you at Monday’s rescheduled sports day and family picnic. Fingers crossed that the weather doesn’t upset our plans again.

‘There is only one corner of the universe you can be certain of improving, and that’s your own self’ Aldous Huxley

In the meantime have a lovely weekend
Mr P Newbold
